

ZWEIHANDER

A SUTEKH PRODUCTION

Greetings to our honoured members, at long last your perfunctory editor has come up with the goods. I apologise to all concerned about the late arrival of Zweihander and you will be glad to know that I'm working on more issues to be released throughout second semester.

Firstly though, a special welcome to all of the new club members of our humble SUTEKH family, and a big hello to our regular crowd. For the benefit of all those who are new to the club I would once again like to inform you that here at SUTEKH we meet to interest, involve and otherwise entertain in a more social atmosphere in an alternate realm, the realm of your imagination. I speak of course of games of all varieties, with particular emphasis on Role Playing Games. You will also find here connoisseurs of comics and various novels in the sci-fi and fantasy/adventure genre, as well as other interesting odds and ends. But most importantly you will find here people who share similar ideas and interests as you, who will be more than willing to chat to you about various bits to your heart's content.

The club meetings are held in the Isabel Fidler Room on the top floor of Manning Building, on Mondays and Fridays around lunch time, so its nice and convenient for everyone. Throughout this semester the club has already organised some video night where you can either catch up on old sci-fi classics, see the new wonders of hi-tech animation, or be exposed to an ancient heritage of shows that are the pioneers of our current sci-fi mega hits, lest you be left in the ranks of the ignorant and the unenlightened. There have also been games' nights and conventions organised, which all involve a myriad of events ranging from board and role playing games to freeforms.

All information prior to such events is always supplied in the Daily Bull, so now you will know to look there to remind yourself. I will always try to post notices in the later issues of Zweihander so you will be well forewarned of any upcoming events.

Attendance at our events so far has been quite good. The first video night managed to attract some 20 to 30 people to the screenings of "Star Trek, the Next Generation," "The Terminator" and "The Little Shop of Horrors," combined with lots of munchies, provided an entertaining atmosphere for everyone. Our first games' night proved even more successful, with about 40 people showing up, with approximately 5 to 6 games being played.

i MPORTANT

* SUTekh cards - If you don't have your cards yet please see Jason Price.

* If you paid during O' Week please see Jason with your receipt at a meeting. This is necessary due to the unfortunate events which concerned the loss of the original money box with the receipts. We apologise for this inconvenience, but it would be much appreciated if you would offer your assistance.

* If you know someone who is interested in joining our society then you can inform them that the official membership fee is $5. We also have T-shirts in short and long sleeves for sale in all sizes for only $10.

MEMBERSHIP in our club offers you the advantages of obtaining discounts at the following establishments:

1. The Phantom Zone:
93a Argyle St. Parramatta (10%)
2. Napoleon's Military Bookshop:
336 Pitt St. City (5%)
3. Books Buy and Sell
711 George St. Haymarket (10%)

OUR club also has an extensive library of approximately 2000 books, 200 magazines and comics, and also various board and roleplaying games. If you wish to know more about what the library has got to offer please see our librarian Peter Kearns. There is a 2 week loan period and it will be easiest to obtain loans during meetings on Mondays and Fridays at the Isabel Fidler Room in Manning House; from about 12 noon to 3 pm on Mondays and about 11 am to 4 pm on Fridays.

Iwould secondly like to introduce our club Executive Committee, who manage and keep our Great Club rolling along, making sure that all those organisational bits are well looked after.

What follows is list of positions, names and numbers where these people can be reached should you urgently require their help.

They can all, of course, be found easily at SUTekh meetings at Isabel Fidler (on Mondays and Fridays)

President: Steven Caldwell 698 2972
Secretary: Andrew Nipperess 631 7483
Treasurer: Jason Price 519 6529
Librarian: Peter Kearns 692 8831
Committee Members:

Evan Paliatseas, Daen Ekers, Michelle Marquardt

UPCOMING EVENTS

Here are some upcoming events tat are organise outside our regular running times for games which will be detailed later.

Asterix freeform - written by Steven Caldwell and Rebecca Ward. To be held at Centennial Park on July 14th. There's 40 characters in total and only 6 left to be chosen so if you want to be in it ring Steven.

Convention News -

Here's a few lines on the conventions that are happening around the scene that you might want to check out:

SAGA: 8th to 10th June. Involves both roleplaying and wargaming so it might hold something for everyone.
-UNFORTUNATELY IT'S AT THE BEGINNING OF STUVAC, SO THE DECISION IS YOURS!

Cost is approximately $30 for the event.

ARCANACON: 11th to 14th July. Held in Melbourne, more information can be obtained at your local gaming shops. Coincides with our Asterix freeform, but for anyone not involved, you may want to check it out.

NECRONOMICON: 5th to 7th October (which is Labour Day) It's happening in Sydney but for more information ask Steven.

MACQUARIECON: At the end of the year. More info in later issues.

THIS next part concerns our activities after the meetings, which include lots of board games and roleplaying games. If you're interested in running something please drop me a note and we'll print it in the next issues. Look for my name at the end of this issue.

At the moment the games running include the following, to which you are welcome to come and watch or participate, especially in some that are yet to be run.

A RTICLES AND S TORIES

Commander Tenec Morg smiled as he examined the scanner. "biker in three" he muttered, the words being picked up by everyone on communicators. "Getting a fix" came the reply. Morg grinned grimly to himself. This battle would sort out the boys from the men he thought, and those pansy Eldar would eat lead and plasma. "Biker in two" and as he spoke there was a spontaneous burst of song from his fellow marines. Morg smiled as the familiar strains of psalm 149, "Here we go, 'ere we go, 'ere we go,..." filled the airwaves. The brothers were in good spirits, and the sacred song of the Venerable Virgins chapter seemed to embody this fervor. "Biker in one!" This biker was in for a real surprise. Okay here it comes. "ten.nine.eight...shiiit" Morg screamed as a brightly coloured streak tore over the crest of the hill, twin shuriken catapults raining death upon the power armor clad marines. The monomolecular cutting edges of a shuriken sliced into the marine next to him, and he fell dead, as fluids and chemical enhancers sprayed out of severed pipes, mixed with blood, muscle and bones. In a burst of marine adrenalin they engulfed the Eldar bike in explosive shells from their bolters, only to watch stunned as it emerged moments later unscathed, banking right for a strafing run on the support squad. Their cumbersome heavy weapons making them an easy target. The shuriken catapults shrieked again the marines dove for cover, many would not rise again... But this was not to be so, an Imperial land speeder had been accelerating towards the bike from its blind side, and now, point blank, fired its enormous multi-melta array at the bike. Morg could only watch stunned as both vehicles became enveloped in a fireball, showering plasma and shrapnel on the unfortunate heavy weapons squad below. Morg suddenly thought, as he triggered his jump pack, that maybe things weren't exactly going according to plan. Moments later, as his rapidly accelerating powered armor cleared the crest of the hill, he was hit by a plasma bolt and was reduced to a melted slag. The battle was over the massacre began...
